

The Voice of Podiatrists

Serving Over 11,000 Podiatrists Daily

October 21, 2009 #3,680 Publisher-Barry Block, DPM, JD

A service of Podiatry Management <http://www.podiatrym.com>

E-mail us by hitting the reply key.

COPYRIGHT 2009- No part of PM News can be reproduced without the express written permission of Kane Communications, Inc.

RESPONSES / COMMENTS (NON-CLINICAL)- PART 1

RE: PADnet+ System (Tamara Allen, DPM)

From: Frank Lattarulo, DPM

I have extolled the praises many times in this forum regarding the Biomedix PAD system. Good accurate testing. Many of my patients who have gotten tested have been diagnosed with moderate to severe PAD. They have then been referred to the vascular surgeon and have gone on to simple angioplasty or less invasive endovascular procedures. Had they not had this test and their symptoms and arterial evaluation not been done, they may have gone on to more costly lower extremity bypass surgery. Ease of use, good support, and extra revenue added to good patient care make this system an important part of my practice. It is highly recommended.

Frank Lattarulo, DPM, NY, NY, doclatt@aol.com

DISCLAIMER: Internet communications cannot be guaranteed to be either timely or free of viruses.

Guidelines

- To Post a message, send it to: bblock@podiatrym.com
- Notes should be original and may not be submitted to other publications or listservs without our express written permission.
- Notes must be in the following form:
RE: (Topic)
From: (your name, DPM)
Body of letter. Be concise. Limit to 300 words or less). Use Spellchecker
Your name, DPM City/State
- Subscribers are reminded that they have an ethical obligation to disclose any potential conflicts of interest when commenting on any product, procedure, or service.

Barry H. Block, DPM, JD